REATY MOVE S DEFEATED BY LATEST ENATE VOTE

ails To Get The Necessary Two-Thirds Majority

UMANIAN CRISIS

llied Appointments Fail To Meet People's Favor

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, March 19.—The eace Treaty has failed to pass the Senate, the proposed eservations not receiving the ecessary two-thirds majority.

Paris, March 16.—The Secreary General of the League of ations announces that all the hirteen nations invited to join he Covenant and pact of the eague of Nations have signified eir adhesion, namely, Argentina, hile, Colombia, Paraguay, Persia, pain, Denmark, Holland, Norway, alvador, Sweden, Switzerland nd Venezuela.

Washington, March 15.—The enate has adopted by 66 votes to 4 the substitute reservations to rticle 10 recently proposed by enator Lodge.

The reservation includes among nternational controversies in hich the United States would efuse to interfere all controversies relating to territorial ntegrity or political indenpdence.

Article Ten reads:

The high contracting parties hall undertake to respect and reserve as against external ggression the territorial integrity nd existing political indepenence of all States members of he League. In case of any such ggression or in case of any hreat or danger of such aggresion the Executive Council shall dvise upon the means by which he obligation shall be fulfilled.

London, March 15.—A critical ituation has arisen in Rumania. t is reported that M. Pop who as been acting Premier in the bsence of the Premier, M. Vaida Voivod, in London has resigned nd the King has commissioned General Averescu to form a new abinet. M. Vaida Voivod is proceeding to Bucharest today.

The crisis has given rise to pprehensions in Allied circles as M. Vaida Voivod has harmoniously co-operated with the Allies while the appointment of General Averescu, it is feared, might ndicate a reversion to the tactics of the former Rumanian Governments.

New York, March 15.—The Associated Press correspondent at Bukharest states that the Crown Prince Carol of Rumania has been ntrusted with a mission to take an autograph letter from the King of Rumania to the Emperor of Japan and "to establish new relations between Rumania and Japan." The Crown Prince, according to the correspondent, will also attempt to secure the repatriation of the Rumanian prisoners in Siberia.

Emir Feisul Asked To State Position

Reported From Damascus That He Has Accepted Offer Of Crown

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 18.—Replying to Mr. W. G. A. Ormsby-Gore, the Prime Minister stated that Great Britain and France had informed the Emir Feisul that they were unable to recognise the decision of the Damascus Congress (declaring the independence of Syria and proclaiming the Emir Feisul King of Syria) and they had invited him to come to Europe to state his case.

Cairo, March 16.—According to a telegram from Damascus, members of the Syrian Congress visited the palace on March 8, and offered the crown of Syria to the Emir Feisul, who accepted it, after which attired in a Field Marshal's uniform he drove amid the acclamations of the crowd to the Municipal palace where he mounted the throne, to cries of "Long live the King." The Emir Abdulla, brother of Feisul, has been proclaimed King of Irak.

(Reuter's Service)

Fort Worth, (Texas), March 18.—Fifteen hundred persons are homeless as the result of a fire which has been raging in Grand View and is still burning. The material damage is estimated at $2,000,000. The business and residential sections of the town have been completely destroyed.

Peking Anxiously Awaits Morgan Banker's Arrival To Settle National Loan

Showdown Of Foreign Policy In China Is Predicted When Mr. Lamont Takes Up Consortium Funds Question

BY NATHANIEL PEFFER
(Our Staff Correspondent)

PEKING, March 18.—The telephone wires of Peking are burdened with eager Chinese queries as to the whereabouts of Mr. Thomas W. Lamont of the United States of America. Suddenly political and financial Peking has begun to burn with fevered interest in the coming of the American banker, who is in the Far East as representative of the American Banking Groups in the New Consortium, the New Consortium which has yet to see fulfillment. A gorgeous new vista has opened up to the governing Chinese—a vista glistening yellow with the glint of American gold.

Mr. Lamont will enter these walls, whenever he does enter, in an aura of mystery. He has been in Asia for some three weeks now. What he has done, what he intends to do, what he is here for, what he plans, what he thinks, even when he is coming and which way—these are matters concerning which there is as much ignorance as if he were, instead of an American banker on a financial mission, a burning meteor voyaging the Milky Way. But his actual coming may be fraught with much greater present importance and much heavier future consequence than that metaphor suggests. It will bring foreign policy in China to a concrete showdown.

Mr. Lamont comes with the great prestige of a high ranking member of the House of Morgan and one of the American economic delegates at the Paris Peace Conference. He comes also to negotiate directly for the establishment of the Consortium. In his coming and the decision reached therefrom will be decided once and for all, it is presumed and hoped, the fate of the Consortium and all that hangs thereon. By his coming also it is presumed that America's financial policy in China will be fixed.

Who Is Authorised To Lead Negotiations?

In that connection it must not be overlooked that Mr. Lamont is the most important financier that the United States has ever sent to this country and it must not be neglected to mention the gratification an American feels that for once there has come on such a mission one who is endowed with the capacity and the prestige and also with the authority properly to commit American interests.

What will Mr. Lamont do? What—as we see it here in Peking—should he do? It is more fitting to ask. What can he do? And difficult not to answer—precious little.

What can he do, in truth? He is here to negotiate a huge loan as the consummation of the Consortium. With whom shall he negotiate? With Premier Chin—who is here today and may not be tomorrow and who is, moreover, the No. 2 disciple of Tuan Chi-jui, Little Hsu being the Number 1? With Li Ssu-hao, Minister of Finance and compliant Comptroller of the Anfu Club? With President Hsu—who doesn't have so much more to say than the author of these lines? With Little Hsu—the ex-officio Living Buddha of Urga, enfant terrible of Peking and faithful friend of Tokio? With whom? With the government? This government? Heaven forbid!

It goes without saying that Mr. Lamont is not here merely to make a loan. He must come to inaugurate a new, comprehensive policy that will attack the problem of China at its roots. In the inauguration of that policy a big loan may be necessary, but it is the policy that is the main issue and the loan that is incidental. And that policy cannot be effectively inaugurated on conditions to which this government or any of its ilk will ever lend agreement. And any policy based on conditions to which this government would lend agreement would be a fatal, tragic error scarcely paralleled since the opening of diplomatic relations between the East and West.

As I said above, this is the coming to a showdown of foreign policy in China after the years of drift necessitated by pre-occupation with the world war. It must be understood and emphasised and hammered in as just that. And it must be prepared for as such. Most important, it must be impressed on the Chinese as such. The glorious expectations of another huge downpouring out of the Western cornucopia for Chinese official gorging must be crushed at the start.

Need Of Unity Seen By People Of China

The first essential is unity of purpose and program among the four Powers involved—Great Britain, France, Japan and America. Is there such unity? Here in Peking one cannot tell. The nearest, immediate question is the Japanese position with respect to Manchuria and Inner Mongolia. If it still insists on the exclusion from the Consortium of its asserted spheres there, then the Consortium or anything like it is dead before yet it is born—and better dead. For if Japan exempts these preserves, France will insist—and with justice—on the exemption of its preserves and Great Britain on the exemptions of its. And there you will be just where you were ten and twenty years ago, with the Chinese people saddled with just so much more indebtedness and American business footing the bill. Mr. Lamont has been in Tokio for at least a fortnight in consultation with Mr. Odagiri and the other Japanese bankers. Whether he has reached a satisfactory settlement on this question one cannot tell. Whether also he has received similar assurances from the British and French bankers one cannot tell also. But such assurances are indispensable to the realisation of the Consortium.

Behind all the immediate negotiations therefore is the underlying question of whether or not there has been a definite, tangible reformulation of the principles of foreign diplomacy in China. There is the question whether the great Powers have pledged themselves to the abandonment of their former attitude to China and the waiving of their former perquisites—concessions, spheres of influence, competition for exclusive rights, exploitation and the like. This can be summed up in a sentence, but it involves a diplomatic revolution. And by nothing short of such a revolution can anything constructive be accomplished—by Mr. Lamont or anybody else. This is to say that behind the Consortium bankers there must stand concrete, practical action and agreement in action by the governments concerned. Banking groups are not responsible to anybody but their directors. And directors change. Behind them must stand the formal guaranties of their governments as a check.

Without such check it is unfair and useless to ask the Chinese—the patriotic, farsighted Chinese, that is, not the government—to yield as much as China must yield to make the Consortium a success. For a successful Consortium, as has been said again and again, involves a control of China's government for China's own salvation.

And make no mistake about this: The Chinese, the most intelligent and modern Chinese, are highly suspicious of the Consortium or any other foreign interference. They have the past hundred years for justification. They must be given recognisable evidence that the suspicion is no longer justified. The second essential therefore is the public pronouncement on the part of the four governments of such a new policy.

Peking In Need Of New Government

The third essential is the joining in a program which shall exert pressure on the Chinese government to make it submit to the necessary

AMERICANS IN GERMANY SEEK RHINE ARMY'S PROTECTION

In Liepzig For Big Fair Feel Their Lives Are In Danger

APPEAL TO ALLEN

Ebert Cabinet Member Predicts Dire Penalty For Rebels

(American Wireless Service)

Coblenz, March 18.—Two hundred Americans who are attending the Fair at Leipzig, have appealed to Major-General Allen, commanding the American troops on the Rhine, urgently to send help for them to leave Leipzig where conditions are a danger to their lives. Major-General Allen has given orders for the despatch of a special train to Leipzig.

Firing is going on continuously in various parts of Leipzig. The water and lighting supply has been cut off.

Efforts are being made to concentrate all Americans in Germany at one point so that all who so desire may leave. At present, so far as is known, all Americans are safe.

Coblenz, March 19.—An unconfirmed report states that there have been a thousand killed in the fighting at Kiel.

The situation is grave. The Communists are reported to be gaining headway in Saxony and Westphalia.

ESSEN SURROUNDED BY ARRIVED WORKMEN

Berlin, March 19.—Essen has surrendered to armed workmen after violent fighting. It is estimated that 300 have been killed.

The Communists have captured five railway stations in East Berlin. Armored trains have been despatched to the scene.

Stuttgart, March 18.—The Minister of the Interior in the Ebert Government declares that the Kapp regime has tremendously damaged Germany economically. The coal and food situation is acute. The Minister added that the Government intended to deal severely with the offenders.

London, March 19.—The Exchange Telegraph Company estimates that 2,000 have been killed in the fighting in the German revolution last week.

Vienna, March 18.—Nine persons have been killed in a fight between soldiers of the National Guard and Socialists.

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 18.—It is authoritatively stated that according to latest reports from Germany it is hoped that the Center, Democratic and Majority Socialist parties will form a provisional Government in Berlin to carry on affairs until definite arrangements have been made with the old government at Stuttgart.

The resignation of Dr. Kapp is doubtless due to the fact that his position had become impossible owing to popular disapproval, the refusal of the old Government to negotiate, the unreliability of many of his troops and the growing disorder. Many officers in Berlin declare that they were tricked into supporting the coup d'etat and have announced their adherence to the old government.

SPARTACIST MOVE TAKES NEW LIFE

The most serious factor is the attitude of the Independents who refuse to co-operate with either government except on terms amounting to the establishment of a Soviet republic.

Grave troubles are expected all over the country owing to the revival of the Spartacist movment.

Paris, March 16, 9:30 p.m.—According to the Paris edition of the Daily Mail the War Council, presided over by Marshal Foch, yesterday decided to move up guns and infantry, ready for an advance into Germany.

The French Consul-General at Mayence is proceeding to the headquarters of the Old Government, with instructions to watch events.

The French Military Mission at Berlin has refused to receive any communication from General von Luttwitz.

Events in Germany are regarded by the French newspapers as a vindication of French judgment and a knock-out blow for President Wilson.

There is a consensus of opinion that the Berlin Government is "Hohenzollern camouflage" and

Cuban Prisoners Used To Break Shipping Strike

The strike of stevedores at Havana tied up American shipping but has gradually been broken through the use of prisoners from Cuban jails, who were pressed into service by the authorities. Here is shown a group of prisoners, under guard of militia arriving at the San Francisco and Machino wharves in Havana. The prisoners are paid $3.50 a day for their work as steved ores.

SMUGGLED OPIUM VALUED AT $40,000 IN SHIP'S CABIN

Customs Officer Discovers Cache In Walls Of Room Used By Servants

JAIL SENTENCES IMPOSED

Two Years Each For Five Employees Of Vessel Accused In Case

Opium valued at $40,000 was confiscated and five ship's servants were sentenced to two years each in the Municipal Jail yesterday as a result of a customs raid on the steamship Unda which arrived in port on March 13. The opium was found hidden behind the panels of the cabin occupied by three servants, two cooks and the ship's steward, The steward escaped.

British Assessor Grant Jones and Magistrate Kwan heard the case. Mr. R. F. C. Master appeared for the customs service and Customs Officer W. Nash, who led the raid and Captain T. W. Meadow, of the Unda, were the two principal witnesses.

There were 488 pounds of opium seized by the officers, led by Mr. Nash, when the cabin of the servants was searched. It took two hours to get at the horde and when the customs men had finished they had practically dismantled the room.

The accused servants protested their innocence and asserted that the opium was smuggled by the steward. Captain Meadow said that the whereabouts of the steward were unknown.

The ship came here from Singapore and police officers indentified the opium as having come from India.

The court ordered that the drug be turned over to the customs authorities for destruction.

BRIDE OF MONTH DIES SUDDENLY WHILE IN BATH

Mrs. W. Wiley, wife of the Shanghai manager for Messrs. John Dickinson and Company, Ltd., died suddenly Sunday night in the bathtub at her home on Great Western Road. Her husband, reading in an adjoining room, called to her half an hour after she had entered the bath room, received no answer, investigated and found his wife apparently scalded to death. Physicians were immediately called but life was extinct. It is believed that Mrs. Wiley was first overcome by gas.

The death is particularly tragic as Mr. and Mrs. Wiley had been married less than a month. He was formerly assistant purser on the Empress of Asia and resigned his position to take the local office of Messrs. John Dickinson and Company, paper dealers. He arrived here with his bride on March 10.

Funeral services for Mrs. Wiley will be held this afternoon at the Bubbling Well Cemetery.

Cabinet In Italy Is Reconstructed

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, March 15.—The Nitti Cabinet has been reconstructed and nine members of the Ministry replaced. Signor Nitti remains Premier and ad interim Colonial Minister while Signor Scialoja remains at the Foreign Ministry.

Murderous Raids Are Laid To Irish

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 18.—In the House of Commons this afternoon, replying to Mr. Walter Guinness, Mr. J. I. Macpherson Chief Secretary for Ireland, stated that since January 1, 1919, 18 members of the Royal Irish Constabulary, six of the Dublin police, two soldiers and one other Government servant had been murdered in Ireland, while murders of 65 members of the Constabulary, 17 of the Dublin police, four soldiers and three other Government servants had been attempted and there had been 25 attacks on police barracks.

London, March 16.—The military made a nocturnal raid in Queenstown and arrested eight men and lads, who were tied, and conveyed them to the Cork jail.

Four Lost When American U-Boat Is Lost In Storm

U. S. Submarine Goes Down In Magdalena Bay—Survivors Tell Tale Of Suffering

(Reuter's Service)

San Diego, March 19.—The U.S. submarine H. 1. grounded and sank in Magdelena Bay last night. Lieutenant Commander Webb and three members of the crew perished.

Twenty survivors, who have arrived at Los Angeles, tell a terrible story of their sufferings. The wrecked submarine sank off Santa Margarita Island after having been forced aground by a stormy sea.

In the darkness the officers and crew had to swim a hundred yards to reach safety and it was while struggling to reach the shore that Commander Webb and the three enlisted men perished.

The survivors, battered by the waves, succeeded in reaching the barren island. Here they remained, wet and suffering from exposure, for 24 hours before they were rescued. During that time they had no water.

China Invited To Attend Details Of Institute In Paris

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, March 14 (delayed).—M. Painleve whom the Chinese Government has invited to discuss the details of the foundation of a Chinese institute in connection with the University of Paris, has been asked to forward to the President of the Republic of China a letter from M. Deschanel President of the French Republic emphasising "the importance to the progress of civilisation of strengthening the intellectual relations between the marvellous Chinese culture, the most ancient in the world's history, and the culture of France," and stating that the French Government will give all the assistance in its power to the creation of the institute "which the President of China has so generously initiated."

FRENCH LABOR CHIEF OUTLINES MOVE IN RUSSIA

Appointment Of Missions Is Forecasted In Interview By M. Albert Thomas

DISTINCTION EXPLAINED

Board Of Inquiry To Be Sent To Be Independent Of League Body

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 19.—M. Albert Thomas, director of the International Labor Office, in the course of an interview here today, pointed out that the agenda of the meeting of the governing body of the International Labor Office in London next week included the proposal to send a mission of inquiry to Russia and the appointment of an international emigration mission.

With reference to the former, M. Thomas stated that a wireless message had been received to the effect that Russia was prepared to allow the mission to inquire into questions of fact but that it reserved to itself the right to send similar missions into other countries.

M. Thomas said that the mission which was being sent by the League of Nations would make a general inquiry while the international labor mission would be independent and would inquire into industrial and social conditions, not concerning itself with political questions.

The international labor mission would be carried out by representative employers, labor leaders and government experts. In order to secure co-ordination between the two inquiries, the International Labor Office had been invited to nominate one employer and one worker on the general mission.

(American Wireless Service)

Washington, March 15.—The State Department has submitted to the Supreme Council a definite plan for opening commercial relations with Russia, without recognising the Soviet. No details are available at present.

BOLSHEVIST UPRISINGS REPORTED IN POLAND

Berlin, March 19.—Telegrams received from Breslau state that an uprising of a Bolshevik character has broken out in Warsaw and other parts of Poland.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, March 12 (delayed).—The Warsaw correspondent of the Associated Press telegraphs that the United States Liquidation Board has agreed to sell to Poland surplus army stores to be delivered at Danzig on six years credit at five percent interest.

The stores include clothing, locomotives, trucks and large quantities of oleo-margarine, flour and oats. The transaction does not imply United States support of Poland.

San Francisco, March 18.—The United States transport, Mount Vernon, sailed earlier than was expected. It is hoped that she will reach Vladivostok by April 1.

Empire Day Parad Missed Since 1914, Resumed This Year

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 19.—The Empire Day parade which has been suspended since 1914, will be resumed on May 24, when Prince Albert will take the salute of the Guard's on the parade ground in Hyde Park. The 64 flags of the Empire will be carried in the procession by cadets.

TEN KILLED HERE IN BIG JAIL-BREAK; 178 ESCAPE

Wholesale Penitentiary Delivery Occurs At Lunghwa

ONLY 24 RE-TAKEN

All Police Are Notified That 147 Criminals Are At Large

BATTLE RAGES

Three Warders Are Shot Down And Dash Made On Prison Gates

Three guards and seven prisoners were killed Sunday afternoon when 178 Chinese serving terms at the second provincial pentientiary of Kiangsu Province in Tsao Ho Chin village, a mile south of the Lunghwa Pagoda, overpowered the warders, stripped them of their firearms, opened the cells, broke through the prison gates and escaped. Three other warders were so badly hurt that they were sent to the hospital.

The break at Tsao Ho Chin prison came shortly after 6 o'clock. An hour before, two warders at the Shanghai City Branch Prison were injured when prisoners there nearly rioted. Extra police fired into the air and guards arrested two instigators before the prisoners made good their attempt to escape.

FEW ARE CAPTURED

Of the 178 escaping from Tsao Ho Chin, 24 were captured after an all-night search by soldiers from the Arsenal and military police. Seventeen were given preliminary trial before the Shanghai City Magistrate yesterday and they were ordered to be turned over to the Defense Commissioner at Lunghwa.

Police departments of the International Settlement and French Concession have been notified that 147 convicts have not yet been apprehended. All the men had been sentenced to terms of not less than five years for crimes committed in Chinese territory.

Two long termers, Kiang Kingdu and Wong Tao-tsing, armed with brass rods made in the prison foundry, were the instigators of the riot at Lunghwa. The prisoners had been lined up for the nightly roll call before being sent to their cells when Kiang and Wong made a break for the warder in charge of section one, Mei Chun, and gagged him with a cloth. Others attacked Inspector Hsu Hung-shing, took away his gun and fired on the other guards.

GUARDS STRIPPED

Before extra police were summoned, the prisoners had stripped their guards of arms and had raided the stock room where guns and ammunition are kept.

Chang Mu-chi, who was in charge of the section where the rioting started, was instantly killed by one of the leaders, Kiang, and two other guards died from the effects of bullet wounds.

Supt. Hao Tseng-hsiang was in the power plant making an inspection when he heard the shooting and police whistles. He was injured. He immediately ordered every available man to the prison wing where the trouble started and sent for help from the Defense Commissioner and the district chief of police. Troops and extra police were ordered to the scene, but did not arrive until an hour after the inception of the rioting.

BREAK FOR GATES

In the meantime lights were turned out and a false alarm of fire was sounded throughout the prison where inmates, armed with prison guns, were fighting their guards. Cells were opened when keys were taken from jailers and the men made a break for the gates. Here guards made another futile stand, the East and West gates were broken open and the prisoners escaped.

Nantao Police Headquarters and the 2nd, 3rd and 4th district police stations sent men to augment the posse made up of military police and Arsenal soldiers and a search was started for the escaped men. Assistance was asked of the French Police and the International Settlement Department.

Fourteen prisoners were retaken by the fourth district police, three by the third district. Nantao Headquarters men arrested two and one was taken by the French

Police as he was about to cross the boundary into the French Concession.

At the trial yesterday of 17 of the captured men, all denied complicity in instigating the break. They testified that they had been assembled at 6:15 for the usual roll call and locked in their cells by Warder Mei Chun, one of the injured guards. When Mei started for his dinner the cells were opened, they testified.

FLED FROM WARDERS

"Warders stopped us and started to fire; we saw Mei and other guards overpowered and we ran out the open gates with the rest," they told the magistrate.

The seven prisoners killed included Kiang King-fu, on of the leaders. The other inmates killed by guards were: Chang Ah-foh, Hsu Ah-foh, Chu Pao-foh, Wong Tao-ching, Tsing Hang-chung and Sheng Fu-san.

That the attempt to escape was planned by the prisoners, was the belief expressed yesterday. On six days of the week they work in the various industrial departments connected with the institution and Sunday is a holiday for the men. The rods used by the men leading the attack on the guards were made in the prison foundry.

Between six and seven hundred prisoners are incarcerated in the prison.

Russian Students Urge Withdrawal Of Allied Troops

Alleging that the Allied intervention is creating widespread indignation among the Russians, Russian students in Vladivostok have addressed a letter to students all over the world, appealing for the removal of obstacles to the free expression of the national will of the Russians.

In response, the Shanghai Students' Union, informed them that the Peking government has withdrawn its troops and expressed the hope that other countries will also stop their intervention in their national affairs.

The full text of the letter from Russian students follows:

"Comrades—students of all nations: With feelings of deepest joy we inform you that in the Russian Far East, under the blows of the people's indignation, the power of those who, by every possible means tried to suppress the free voice of the people, has collapsed.

"The time is near when all Russia will be free from violators of the people's will, violators who hide under the banner of national revival and at the same time commit all manner of brigandage and murder.

"Unfortunately these pitiful remnants of the regime which is disappearing—all these Kolchaks, Denikins, Judenitches, who are trying to play a role as Napoleons in the Russian revolution are supported by the imperialistic governments of your various countries.

"England is responsible for Kolchak's advent. Japan is supporting the hated Ataman brigands. Many other governments are helping them.

"The Allied interventions, which have become the obstacle to the free expression of national will aiming to bring all Russia together, is creating widespread indignation.

"Russia united in a struggle toward a bright future of free peoples. Russia, who lighted first the torch of revolution will not allow anybody without her will to interfere in her internal affairs, and any further attempt at intervention and occupation will force her to show her indignation in another form, as the revolutionary army is great and her spirit strong. This New Russia awaits your voice, the voice of those in whose hands is placed the construction of new life on the principles of liberty, fraternity and equality, the voice of the hope of all peoples, the voice directed to the defense against your governments of the right of the Russian people to construct its own life.

"We extend our friendly hand to the Chinese students who are forming the vanguard of protectors of the rights of their motherland, who are fighting to the last against the foreigners, who are suppressing the voice of the people.

"Demand of your government most resolutely the recalling of their troops from Russian territory (this applies especially to Japanese students) and form a solid foundation for the construction of a new life in which the wish of a free people will be above all else.

"The partisan war against the executioners of the Russian revolution has taught every Russian how to handle a machine gun and the students with all the people, when it proves necessary, will go with arms in their hands for the defense of their rights. We shall not permit the interest of Russia to be ignored, as Russia has borne all the burden of the German war and received as a reward the burden of intervention.

"We know that our appeal to you will not be disregarded, that you will respond. We wish you success and crying out with you from the very depths of our mutilated but staunch hearts—Long live the world-wide fire of revolution. Long live the coming mutual construction of a new free life.

"Russian Far East Students."

SHANGHAI STUDENTS REPLY

The reply of the local Students' Union reads:

"Many thanks for your kind letter which we have duly received. We respect the cause of the struggle of the Russian people. The ideal life that you all are striving for is gradually compelling admiration in most parts of the world. It will be gratifying to you to learn that the ideas that the people of your country have been entertaining with respect to the welfare of Russia are being presented outside of your country in a better light than before, though unfavorable criticism is still prevalent.

"According to authentic news, the Peking Government has withdrawn its troops from your country. We believe that the time is near when other countries will also stop their intervention in your national affairs.

"We, the Chinese students, are at present co-operating with our countrymen to rescue our country from the imminent dangers that she has been facing, though our methods are different from yours. The Chinese people love liberty, equality, fraternity, with no less enthusiasm than the Russians. We are longing as earnestly as you for the triumph of right over might in every part of the world."

Snake With Fins And Horns Seen At Temple Here

Anyway That's What Press Agent Or Someone Has Told Chinese Populace

It couldn't happen in America since the Great Drouth set in.

Probably the poor, thirsty mortals on the other side of the great pond will weep when they hear about it.

It's all because of a snake.

Rather, a story of a snake.

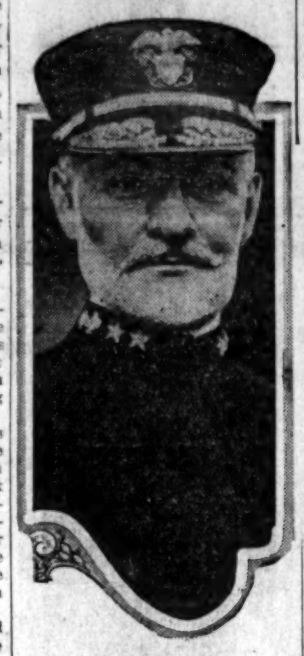
The whole tale is crawly and creepy but then, it's argued, so is a snake.

The Sin Wan Pao, a Chinese newspaper, started the riot. Here's the story it printed:

"A report is current that from the 24th day of the first moon a green snake has appeared in the Zau Woo Miao Temple, Loongwha. This snake has horns and fins and sometimes becomes large and sometimes small. A great many people have gone there to see it."

All of which has led to the conclusion that the Temple has on its staff a man who would make Wallace Irwin turn green with envy as a press agent.

Congress Investigates Sims Criticism



ADMIRAL SIMS

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, March 19.—Admiral Sims today told the Senate Naval Committee that responsibility for the condition which he had criticised could be determined only by an investigation which would disclose whether the mistakes made were due to faulty organisation or to inefficiency.

Weddings

BLACKWELL-BRODIE

Mr. Phillip W. Blackwell of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, Shanghai, and Miss Margaret Alice Brodie, also of Shanghai, were married in Hongkong at St. John's Cathedral last Tuesday. The Rev. H. Copley Moyle, chaplain of the Cathedral, officiated. Mr. A. E. Herdman acted as best man. Miss Eileen Harley of Yokohama was the bridesmaid. The bride was given away by Mr. G. M. Young.

A reception was held at the Hongkong Hotel, at which the health of the bride and bridegroom was toasted. The honeymoon is to be spent at Canton and Macao.

A large number of friends attended the service, including: Mr. and Mrs. E. F. MacKay (of Shanghai), Mr. and Mrs. Ross Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Greig, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. McHutcheon, Mr. and Mrs. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. James, Miss E. Woodcock, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Miss L. Scott, Mrs. Duncan, Mdle. Loup, Sir Ellis Kadoorie, Captain Leitch, Mr. A. S. Gubbay, Captain Byers, Mr. G. Woodcock, Captain Warrall, Monsieur Le Brun, Mr. Belilios, Mr. B. Hale, Mr. J. T. Towns, Captain Dampier, Mr. S. H. Dutton, Mr. A. R. Lowe, Mr. Percy Smith and Mr. C. Blaker.

SMITH-CARROLL

Mr. Guy Eugene Smith and Miss Margaret Jean Carroll were married last evening at the home of Mr. J. Harold Dollar, 20 Route Pottier, at 9 o'clock. Rev. John W. Nichols, of St. John's University, performed the ceremony, Vice-Consul L. Jacobs being present as the representative of the American government.

The bridal couple will start for Tientsin on Wednesday where they will spend several months. Mr. Smith having been assigned to that post temporarily by the Dollar company by which both himself and his bride have been employed for some time.

Miss Carroll won much popularity in Shanghai since her arrival here last September from her home in San Francisco. She is best known to the public generally for her splendid portrayal of the role of "Ann," in the play of that name, which was staged in November by the A. D. C. It was her first appearance on the stage and she displayed talent that at once gained her the approval of the Settlement.

The Carlton Band played the wedding march as the bride descended the stairway to the drawing room, beautifully decorated with flowers and greenery for the occasion, where the ceremony was to be performed. She was escorted by Mr. Dollar who was to give her away. Mrs. Dollar attended as matron of honor and Mr. Ross Smith, brother of the bridegroom who had just arrived here in company with their mother, served as groomsman.

Many beautiful presents were offered the couple by their Shanghai friends and cablegrams of congratulation were sent them from San Francisco, the former home of both bride and bridegroom.

'Far Eastern Republic'

Dr. Sun Yat-sen writes on the International development of China in the February number of the Far Eastern Republic, a monthly published by the Chinese National Welfare Society in America, San Francisco. The ex-president suggests in his article a deep water and ice free harbor be constructed on the Gulf of Pechili, a Northern Railway System, the colonisation of Mongolia and Sinkiang, a canal system and the development of iron and coal fields in Chihli and Shansi.

Other interesting articles in the magazine are "Our industrial Development," "Is Japan a Burning Menace to the World Peace? and "Lectures on the Five Canons of Confucius.

conditions. Such pressure is necessary. It cannot be exerted except by the united action of the four Powers. One form of it must be the notification to the Chinese government and all others concerned that on these terms China gets money and on no other—now or in the future. And efforts must be made to bind the four governments and their bankers to maintain that pledge. That is, the Chinese government must submit or starve. Any other terms would be merely the fortifying of the present governing classes, which would be a calamity. For—if this has been said a dozen times it must be said a dozen more—indispensable to any new order in China is the removal of the present government and the classes from which it is drawn. Otherwise all effort is futile.

The fourth essential is the organisation, simultaneously with the granting of any loan, of machinery which shall enforce the terms. It is not enough to get the Chinese government's paper promise; the signature of its members is not worth the paper that bears it. Guarantics must also be given that China will abide by the terms and submit to the organisation imposed to carry them out. This means officers to supervise demobilisation, inspectors-general in other revenue departments if necessary, supervision in all financial departments, restrictions on all future loan operations of the government, on its future letting of railway and other contracts.

This is what is ahead of Mr. Lamont—or what should be behind him. It is not a loan on which we embarking. It is on a new international order in the Far East. Whether the scope of this is recognised in Peking, Tokio, London, Paris and Washington one hesitates to say. Unless it is one does not hesitate to say that Mr. Lamont will accomplish little of fundamental importance, the Consortium will never breathe the breath of life and the great Powers will have confessed to diplomatic failure in the Far East. And China will remain and grow aggravated as a world problem and some day the problem will sharpen to conflict in which the blood of millions more will be shed.

For we have come to a decisive pass in Asiatic affairs. It can no longer be evaded that the situation in this country is hopeless without drastic, thorough-going, broad-bottomed and fundamental measures. It is too late for temporising, for the kind of aimless, futile day-to-day palavering that has characterised Western diplomacy in China the last few years. The West must get in or get out. For drift it will pay heavily, cruelly, some day. China cries now for the world's greatest statesmanship.

That is why Mr. Lamont's coming is of such tremendous importance, beyond the anxiety of Chinese officials tremblingly holding out the rice bowl for more.

LOCAL SOCIETIES SAYS LOANS SEAL DOOM OF CHINA

Twenty-three local organisations yesterday dispatched a letter to the Doyen of the Diplomatic Corps in Peking and certain ministers of the Allied nations. The message asked the powers to refrain from lending to Peking and to oppose direct negotiations over the Shantung question.

The text of the message follows:

"The undersigned protest against any loans made to the Peking Government which only serve to intensify the troubles and miseries of the Chinese people; and present to you the following resolution:

"For the past several years, the conditions of unrest in this country have entirely been due to the plots of a minority of officials and militarists in Peking. As a result, the people of China are getting into lamentable misfortunes, and the Chinese nation has been prevented from thriving and progressing. We have finally come to the conclusion that our country can never be prosperous without reformation, but that reformation can never be effected through the corrupt officials and militarists in Peking.

"Recently the Peking Government, under the veil of curtailing troops and developing industries, has attempted to secure loans from the friendly countries with a view to crushing the people. Therefore we beg you and the Consortium to take notice of our resolution, that unless the internal political conditions in China are settled, friendly countries will give no financial support to the Peking Government, no matter what reasons and conditions the Peking Government may give for making loans.

"Otherwise, the more loans made to the Peking Government, the more troubles will arise in this country. The conclusion of these loans means the sealing of the doom of the four hundred million Chinese, and will not only bring about an unpleasant reaction among the Chinese themselves, but will also make them apprehensive of the probable hindrance to the foreign trade in China. We hope you and the Consortium will pay special attention to that.

"Incidentally may we express the hope that all the friendly countries will oppose direct negotiations with Japan on the Shantung question."

The signatories include the National Students' Union, the Shanghai Students' Union, the National Organisation Union of China, the Associated Bodies of Shanghai, the Peking Students' Delegation at Shanghai, the National Welfare Association of Returned Students from Japan, the China Labor Association, the Printers' Union, the French Concession Merchants' Union, the Shanghai Women's Union, Returned Chinese Laborer's Association, the Shanghai Japanese Goods Boycotting Association and others.

Laborites Victory In South Africa Tangles Situation

(Reuter's Service)

Cape Town, March 15.—The sweeping gains of Labor in the South African elections have created an extraordinary situation. It seems certain that a second election will be necessary shortly, as no possible combination of parties will be able to form a government. It is anticipated that the Unionists returned will be 25 and the Ministerialists, say, 45.

Quest Society Hears Of Early Day Korea

Historical Outline Presented At Meeting Yesterday By Mr. W. H. Lyuh

An outline of the early history of Korea with a description of the manner in which its civilisation developed through the early centuries and influenced all of the Far East was presented in a paper by Mr. W. H. Lyuh, Korean leader here, at yesterday's meeting of the Quest Society. The paper was read by Mr. C. [illegible] Whang and Dr. Herbert Chatley presided.

At the conclusion of the reading, which did not touch upon Korea's present day struggle for independence, Mr. Lyuh replied to a number of queries and upon request he wrote on the blackboard the Korean alphabet of 25 characters to illustrate its simplicity. A vote of thanks was given to the author of the paper.

ROKER IS SUED ON SHARES DEAL

ense Ordered To File Its leadings When Matter Is Called For Hearing

lleging that the defendant failed to fulfill a con- t calling for the re-delivery 1,058 shares in five com- ies, Carmen Carlyle filed suit erday in the British Supreme rt against Joseph S. Gubbay, l broker. The plaintiff asks gment for Taels 11,350 with rest and costs. The Court red the defense be filed. ce Skinner Turner is hearing case.

r. W. S. Fleming appeared the plaintiff and Mr. W. S. son for the defendant.

he plaintiff's claim is as fol- :

.—That on the 22nd day of , 1918, at Shanghai, China, defendant having in his pos- ion certain shares of stock, property of the plaintiff here- undertook and promised by an eement in writing dated the 22nd day of June, 1918, to eliver the same to the plain- upon the terms and conditions forth in said agreement, a of which is as follows:

E CHARGE

Joseph S. Gubbay, a British ject, resident at Shanghai, na, do hereby promise and ee to deliver the following res and stocks to Carmen Car- of Shanghai, China, or her rney, Earl B Rose, to wit:

00 (one hundred) shares nghai Dock and Engineering (Now registered in the name Carmen Carlyle).

5 (twenty-five) shares Shang- Dock and Engineering Co. a l of one hundred and twenty- , the same to be delivered on before the 15th day of July, 8.

00 (one hundred) shares ngkats.

00 (one hundred) shares ewoek Plantation.

70 (two hundred seventy) res Anglo-Java Estate.

63 (four hundred sixty-three) res Anglo-Dutch, be delivered to the said Car- n Carlyle or her said attorney, l B. Rose, on or before Jan- y 1, 1919, or in lieu of the r last mentioned blocks of res the sum of eight thousand nghai taels (Tls. 8,000) to be d to the said Carmen Carlyle her said attorney, on or before said last mentioned date, to January 1, 1919.

I hereby certify and acknow- ge that the said stocks and or res are the sole property of rmen Carlyle and I have no e or claim in or to the same. Given under my hand and seal Shanghai, China, this 22nd day June, 1918.

Witness:

(Sgd.) Earl B. Rose,

(Sgd.) J. S. Gubbay (Seal)

.—That on the 26th day of y, 1918, the defendant deli- ed to the plaintiff one hundred 00) shares of the Shanghai ck and Engineering Co., but erwise totally failed to keep d perform the terms and con- ions in said contract on his t to be kept and performed.

ARKET VALUE

.—That the market value of balance of twenty-five (25) res of the Shanghai Dock and gineering Co., which according said agreement should have en delivered to the plaintiff on 15th day of July, 1918, was said date the sum of three housand three hundred and fifty aels (Tls. 3,350).

4.—That said agreement pro- vided that in lieu of the delivery of the other shares therein men- tioned on or before January 1, 1919, the said defendant should pay to the plaintiff the sum of eight thousand taels (Tls. 8,000).

5.—That plaintiff has demand- ed of the defendant the payment of said sums of money but the said defendant has refused and neglected to pay the same.

Wherefore the plaintiff prays for judgment against said defen- dant for said sums of three thou- sand three hundred and fifty taels (Tls. 3,350) and eight thousand taels (Tls. 8,000) together with interest on said sums of money from their due dates at legal rates, for costs, and such other relief as to the Court may seem meet.

ASKS SECURITY FOR COSTS

Mr. Levinson said he was pre- pared to consent to pleadings, but had an application to make under rule 99 that the plaintiff should give security for costs, she being out of the jurisdiction of the court and resident in America. Counsel asked that security for costs should be given in the sum of £50 or a bond not exceeding £100.

The Court pointed out that the plaintiff had already deposited $250 as security for costs.

Mr. Levinson said he thought the sum should be increased, be- cause the trial would probably be expensive; there would be taking of evidence on commission, and probably a long delay.

The Court said that at the pre- sent time he did not think there should be any increase in the security. The sum of $250 had already been paid in, and until a defense was filed he did not think it necessary to make any further order. Counsel for the defendant could of course, always renew his application.

In answer to the Judge, Mr. Levinson said he was quite pre- pared to take what was on the writ as the statement of claim, but he might have to ask later for particulars.

The Court made an order for a defense to be filed, and the court then rose.

Knights Of Columbus Hosts To American Sailors

Knights of Columbus in Shang- hai, representing 13 Councils of the Order, were hosts to a party of sailors from the U. S. S. Wilm- ington at a communion breakfast held at the Palace Hotel Sunday morning. Secretary Thomas J. McNally, who is in charge of the K. of C. work with the 15th U. S. Infantry at Tientsin, was in charge of the church party from the Wilmington. The sailors and civilian members of the Order re- ceived Holy Communion at the 8:15 o'clock mass at St. Joseph's Church where pews had been re- served for the group.

Mr. William F. Fox, Overseas Commissioner in charge of Knights of Columbus post-war activities in the Far East, presided at the breakfast.

Every day your complexion

pays toll to dust and wind

The rough, cold winds chap and roughen the skin; dry heated air draws and parches it. The constant strain under which we live—the ceaseless activity of crowded days, the constant effort, the lack of rest—all these things take daily toll of the complexion.

You can protect your complexion from the wear and tear of both summer and winter—can prevent that tired, drawn look from appearing in your face, by giving your skin the care it needs.

Apply a little Pond's Vanishing Cream when you motor or travel; rub it in lightly. This will protect the sensitive pores from grit and grime, will keep your skin free from that parched feeling that generally follows expo- sure to dust and dirt.

It has a wonderfully beautifying effect, and as a base for powder it is so effective that one powdering is sufficient for the whole evening.

This fragrant, dewy cream contains a skin- softening ingredient of great value, one that skin specialists re- cognize as most efficient in keeping the skin supple, for giving it the transparent freshness everyone admires.

ROGERS CHARGES NEWS AGENCIES WITH POLITICS

Says Four Or Five Nations Subsidise Them—Urges U. S. Frankness

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, March 18.—Mr. Walter Rogers, director of government news transmission during the war, told the House of Representatives Merchant Marine Committee today that four or five great nations had subsidised news agencies and proposed playing in this way a political game throughout the world.

He urged the enactment of a bill permitting the Navy Wireless Department to transmit press and commercial messages.

Mr. Rogers said that in the matter of communications the United States was "the bale in the woods" and was being "played for a sucker" daily.

Representative White said that he believed that the Committee was unanimous in the opinion that Congress ought to permit the Navy to transmit news to the Orient at prices fixed by the Navy Department.

Farewell Is Given By Girls Society

Ceremony Precedes Departure Of Dean And Mrs. Walker And Lady de Sausmarez

On the eve of the departure for England of Sir Havilland de Sausmarez and Lady de Sausmarez and that of Dean A. J. Walker and Mrs. Walker, the Girls Friendly Society of the Cathedral congregation last night took leave of lady de Sausmarez, who has been president of the Society, and of Dean Walker and Mrs. Walker.

At a gathering in the Church House addresses to those departing were read by Miss A. Radomski and Miss L. Manley. These in bound form and in letters of gold were as follows:

"The associates and members of the Shanghai Branch of the Girls Friendly Society desire to place on record their high appreciation of their keen interest and sympathy . . . have always taken in the welfare of their Society: the deep esteem and affection with which they regard them: to convey their sincere regrets at losing their help owing to their departure from Shanghai and to extend every hearty wish for their future health and happiness in the new work at home."

A silver card tray with an inscribed sentiment was presented to Dean Walker and Mrs. Walker and a traveling secretaire was given as a token to Lady de Sausmarez.

Japan To Recall Foochow Consul, Peking Is Told

Mr. Obata, the Japanese Minister, has informed the Central Government that Mr. Suzuki will be appointed Consul-General for Japan in Foochow to succeed Consul K. Mori. He stated, however, that the move was initiated by the Tokio Government and has no bearing on the demands made by China in connection with the Foochow imbroglio.

It is understood by official circles in Peking that the Japanese envoy said so to maintain the prestige of his empire. It is learned that Japan will immediately withdraw its police forces in the port upon its own initiative too. The unofficial negotiations over the incident have resulted in Japan's concession practically on every demand made by China, including the punishment of the culprits and the payment of indemnity to the wounded and the families of the dead.

Formal parleys will be opened shortly.

BROADWAY JEWEL SHOPS LOCKED BY GANGS OF BANDITS

(Reuter's Service)

New York, March 14 (delayed).—A gang of robbers daringly held up two jewellery stores on Broadway yesterday evening and decamped with $1,000 worth of diamonds, etc., while the thoroughfare was crowded with theatergoers.

Three bandits at one store held the crowd at bay with revolvers while they emptied trays of jewels into a bag and then escaped, shooting a pedestrian who attempted to interfere.

Three bandits at the second store threw pepper in the eyes of the jewellers clerk, grabbed trays of jewellery and escaped.

It is not known whether both gangs were acting in concert. Two men have been arrested on suspicion.

Prince Of Wales Given Big Ovation On Leaving Home

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 16.—London gave the Prince of Wales a wonderful send-off from Victoria station today on his departure for his tour of Australasia. The crowd, numbering many thousands, in their eagerness to bid farewell to the Prince at close quarters, broke the cordons.

Their Majesties said good-bye to the heir to the throne at the station, where many members of the Cabinet and other notables were assembled.

The train left, amid deafening cheers, for Portsmouth where the prince embarked on the cruiser Renown.

Reuter's special correspondent on board the Renown reports that the ship sailed late in the afternoon.

'TWO AND THREE'

'Putting The Next One Over' With 'Bugs' Baer

Architecture is frozen music. he Chicago opera singers have awed it out and are busy sling- g it at each other.

You can always tell when the era season cuts loose in Illinois. st you hear a soprano voice locking off an intermezzo-bawl- gouttо, followed by a chorus police whistles. Then follows heavy beeyotions, accompanied an augmented orchestra of nbulance gongs.

On the back of Adams Express mpany blanks are nimble words dging all responsibility for fire, rthquakes, strikes, riots and ar. That's the old blank. The w blanks include Middle West era seasons.

In time of war, Chicago was a aceful bailiwick. The Great kes canoe flotilla protected n from the cruel Hun and the era stars were back in their tive countries honing up, their ices on garlic, limburger and her ethereal food of dainty song- rds.

But the minute the Kaiser slid r Holland, the war started for i. The opera panic was on.

The first guy to run the chonia blockade at Ellis Island s Signore Vodka Yellovitch. ring the war, the Signore's ice was as silent as a nickel ano trying to digest a lead slug. tween the Allies and the Trot- y boys, the Signore was a busy y trying to keep between 'em e carried his betweening too r when he landed in Chicago tween a contralto and a sop- no. The Signore is as gallant he is talented. He sings him- lf into a lady's heart and then ws himself out. The lad is so very crafty. He marries one fe during a Republican ad- inistration and another when e Democrats are grabbing the overnment 'sy,' thus making a litical question out of a felony. aving four or five extra wives Russia doesn't annoy the gnore, who falls in love at first sight and then develops astig- matism.

An artistic temperament is a shock absorbing definition of faulty plumbing in the skullpan. While the Signore can stand the perils of bigamy and a Chicago winter, the sight of a polka dotted necktie in the nickel seats is liable to throw him right back into the sclarium circuit of the Keeley Institute. When Mme. Yvonne Galli-Sqawko is thrilling the Convulsion song from the autopsy scene in the opera "Home Brew," all must be as silent as a barroom. The Mme. has a voice that sounds like a Ford changing gears on a hill. It is on Madame's behalf that the Chicago Board of Alder- men passed an ordinance that all squirrels must be muzzled during the opera season.

They chirp that even Carl Mucks is willing to flap back to Boston and play the "Star Spang- led Banner," provided that he is allowed to toot it on a clocken- spiel. America is a great feeding ground for the alien song hawks who grab their fish here and flap back home to eat 'em.

The latest battle started when Mme. Dalorous La Bunk, the great French bella donna, refused to sing in Italian, because it might affect her old man's chances of being elected Alder- man from the Stockyards dis- trict. Her old man's name is Counihan and everybody knew it after the third drink. He is still living, being one of the few re- lics of the souseolithic age of 1918.

Well, it's a great show and Chicago is welcome to 'em. We hand 'em their opera with the same cheerful unselfishness of the slave handing Cleopatra the viper. We wish 'em the joy of the worm. Everybody is happy when the orchestra leader pokes his baton into the cage and the works bust loose like a zoo around feeding time.

There's no real harm accom- plished. The opera always op- erates at night and doesn't affect daylight saving in the least.

China Political Notes From Chinese Papers

Premier Chin Yun-peng pro- poses to nominate the three Ministers, Foreign, Agriculture and Education, as a conciliatory step to make peace with the An- fuites and to maintain his posi- tion as Premier.

A circular telegram declaring the lapse of the Military Compact has been drafted and will be sub- mitted to the Joint Office of General Staff and War for deci- sion.

The Lower House will begin its business session today. The seats of members will be fixed by drawing lots; and the China- Bolivia Treaty will be discussed.

The Government has decided to allow Wu Pei-fu to withdraw his forces, provided it is done in separate batches at different periods so as to enable the Hunan troops to fill up the gaps. A tele- gram has been sent to Wu through Tsao Kun to this effect.

In this audience with the Pre- sident, Liang Chi-chao expres- ed no opinion on the political situation, saying that he was dis- inclined to discuss politics and that he would return to Tientsin in a day or two. He displayed the same attitude when inter- viewing the Premier.

A certain leader of the Old Chiaotung Clique is again strong- ly advocating that the Union of Provincial Assemblies should as- sist the Peace Conference at Shanghai to settle the situation.

Li Chia-ao telegraphically re- ports that the dispute between the Russian and the Japanese troops in Siberia has been settled by mediation.

It has been decided to appoint deputies to proceed to Russia to investigate into and study the political and commercial condi- tions obtaining there, preparatory to entering into a commercial treaty with that country in future.

The Four Banners of Kobdo having requested to join the Re- public, the Government has de- cided to accept its allegiance; a telegram has been sent ordering Yang Tsen-hsin to act according- ly.

Li Chia-ao telegraphs, stating that the Allied Powers have una- nimously expressed their appro- val of the Tuchun, Pao Kuei- ching's action in taking over con- trol of the Chinese Eastern Rail- way.

With regard to the capture of magistrate of Jehol district by the Bolsheviks, Mr. Chao Heng- chin has opened negotiations with the Russian Consul.

Pao Kuei-ching telegraphs, re- porting the resumption of work by the Russians, and the disarm- ing of Russian police. General Horvath has been put under Chinese protection and surveil- lance; and he is going to Harbin in a day or two to reorganise matters there.

The Cabinet has wired Chen Hsia-lin of Eli, promising him funds and arms with which he may defend his territory against the Tibetans. Telegraphic orders have also been issued to Hsiung Keh-wu of Szechuen and Chang Kuang-chien of Kansu to give Chen every support they can.

ANFUITES PLAN CHIN'S FALL AT TIENTSIN PARLEY

Representatives of eleven Tu- chuns and Tartar-Generals, not members of the newly inaugurated Tuchuns' League, met in the home of General Wu Kwang-hsin, Tientsin, under the leadership of General Hsu Shu-cheng, Sunday, and discussed plans to overthrow the Chin Cabinet. It was decided to instruct the Anfu members of Parliament to impeach General Chin.

The impeachment, the meeting decided, should be based on three grounds: his opposition against the Anfu Club with the assistance of General Chang Tso-ling, Tuchun of Fengtien, his proposal to sacrifice the new Parliament and the Tuchuns in Fukien, Hunan and Shensi to win the support of the South and his approval to withdraw the troops of General Wu Pei-fu, which is endangering the position of Tuchun Chang Ching-yao of Hunan.

It was pointed out that the Peiyang faction should strengthen its position considerably and support General Tuan Chi-jui be- fore the Chin Cabinet actually falls. A circular telegram will be sent to the provinces to report on the decision of the meeting.

KIANGWAN RACES

The 62nd meeting of the In- ternational Recreation Club will take place at Kiangwan on Saturday and Monday, April 3 and 5. The first saddling bell will ring at 1 o'clock. Entries for the events will close at the clubhouse, 126 Bubbling Well Road, Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

Mixed Court Notes

A boatman who was commission- ed to transport 30 tons of coal for a dealer at 152 Sinza Road and diverted the cargo for personal profit was sentenced to six months imprisonment, an ac- complice was given a like sentence and the broker who handled the deal was fined $50, in the Mixed Court yesterday. British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li sat in the case.

Two men and a woman, charged with armed robbery, were called before British Assessor Black- burn and Magistrate Li yesterday and their case was remanded to the Italian assessor.

Trifling with the possessions of 30 Chinese residents of the Set- tlement led four men into prison yesterday when their cases were heard. All of the larcenies were petty but the persistency of the offenders caused British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li to decide on a five-year term for each of them. All had been pre- viously convicted.

WHEN FEVERISH OR IN PAIN
There Is Prompt Help And Comfort For Little Ones In Baby's Own Tablets

The health of babies and young children is subject to rapid changes, and careful mothers should not delay at the first sign of feverishness with chills or diuses. There is warning in a hot dry skin, thirst, quick breathing and a plaintive cry; at such a time a prompt dose of Baby's Own Tablets, the children's friend, will often avert a serious illness.

Mrs. M. D. Matheson, of 42 Dufresne Street, Montreal, says:— "My little boy, 5 years old, was threatened with fever. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets at night and in the morning he was better. I shall always use Baby's Own Tablets for my little ones, and I find they take them without trouble."

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy are guaranteed to be equally helpful and harmless to the youngest infant as to the child of 6 years or more. They are recommended for simple fever, colds, indigestion, constipation, colic, diarrhoea, disturbed sleep, eczema, teething troubles and worms. Obtainable from druggists, also post free at 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

EMPRESS OF JAPAN IS DELAYED BY FOG

C.P.O.S. Liner Held At Tsingtao Will Arrive Here Tomorrow

The Canadian Pacific Ocean Services Liner Empress of Japan, due here today, will not arrive at Woosung until tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. The Empress is delayed at Tsingtao by fog, according to a cable to the local C. P. O. S. offices received last night.

The liner brings 70 passengers, 1,400 bags of mail and 155 bars of silver to Shanghai.

The tender with incoming passengers will dock at the Customs Jetty tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. The outgoing tender, with passengers for Hongkong, will leave the Customs Jetty at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

AMERICANS IN GERMANY SEEK RHINE ARMY'S PROTECTION

several Paris newspapers call for action instead of words.

At the same time the news of the monarchist revolution has been received quite calmly in France, where it is recognised that Germany cannot possibly go to war again for years.

ALLIES RETICENT ON GERMAN POLICY

London, March 18.—In the House of Commons this afternoon replying to Commander Kenworthy, Mr. Lloyd George stated that there had been no communication before the coup d'etat between the Allied representatives in Germany and the leaders of the coup d'etat.

In view of the rapidly changing situation in Germany at present the Government did not consider any fresh statement of policy possible. The matter was being further considered. At present he gave the assurance that the Government and the Allies intended to see that the peace treaty was observed.

Berlin, March 17.—Dr. Kapp has resigned the "Imperial Chancellorship."

Copenhagen, March 16.—A telegram from Berlin states that the Kapp regime has issued a declaration, generally confirming the announcement in the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung regarding an agreement between the rival Governments, but with the following differences: It declares that a new Government will be formed comprising professional Ministers, including Ministers of the old regime. The new and old Governments will issue a manifesto condemning the general strike as a crime against the people.

The declaration states that these negotiations have only just begun, adding that, until a decision has been taken, Dr. Kapp has charged the Under-Secretaries of State to carry on the affairs of the Ministries.

It is understood that the undersecretaries are resolved not to take orders from the Kapp regime but to remain at their posts and conduct business according to the program of the Ebert Government. Meanwhile confirmation of the agreement from the old Government has not been received.

Berlin, March 15.—Collisions have occurred between crowds and regular soldiers in various Suburbs of Berlin, in which the latter used rifles and machine-guns. A number of persons were killed and injured.

London, March 17.—A telegram from Copenhagen of yesterday's date states that the cruiser Eckernfonde flying Dr. Kapp's colors bombarded Kiel when anti-Kapp demonstrators were holding a procession in the streets. It is declared that from four to five hundred persons were killed and many houses demolished and furthermore that marines stormed the shipyards and disarmed the workers.

REBELS TENURE STILL INSECURE

London, March 17.—Dominating the whole cable news at present from Berlin is the fact that the Kapp regime's censorship is being utilised to disseminate falsehoods. It is necessary therefore to re-emphasise the warning that all such news must be accepted with considerable reserve. The first example was the Junker Government's declaration that it had been recognised by the Allies and the second was the detailed announcement of the agreement, when actually the Constitutionalists had refused to negotiate.

Reuter's Berlin correspondent declares that the new regime is beginning to find its tenure insecure and that the revolutionaries are mainly concerned with the prospect of obtaining an amnesty.

Diplomatic circles in London have definitely learned that General von Lettow-Vorbeck, former German Commander in East Africa, has joined the Kapp regime and become the military dictator of Mecklenburg, which is regarded as ominous. General Schmettow has also thrown in his lot with the revolutionaries. Meanwhile uncensored messages brought to London by hand emphasise that the plot was undoubtedly engineered by military monarchists aiming at the restoration of the throne.

A telegram from Stuttgart of yesterday's date, obviously not censored in Berlin, declares that the real test is not between Doctor Kapp and Herr Ebert but directly between the militarists and monarchists and the workers. Doctor Kapp has succeded virtually in uniting all the German workers, the decision of the Prussian railway enginemen to strike until Dr. Kapp has retired being a most important event. Furthermore the Saxon railwaymen are striking, and the Wurtemburg railwaymen have joined in. It is reported that the Bavarians have followed suit.

The latest reports of the general strike in Germany state that there is the greatest stoppage of work ever experienced there. Fighting between troops and workers continues to be a frequent occurrence. The death-roll at Dresden is now 59.

REVOLT COLLAPSES SAY BERLIN REPORTS

The Daily Express reports that Dr. Kapp has resigned and the revolution collapsed. This announcement appears likely to be premature, nevertheless it is the general view now is that the military plot is not succeeding.

Berlin, March 16.—Dr. Kapp's press-agent informed Reuter's correspondent that today there was a great danger of Bolshevism. The announcement is generally regarded as a preliminary to the retreat of the regime. The agent warned foreign correspondents against appearing in the streets as a communist revolt was expected. The general strike threatens to deal the revolutionaries a mortal blow, coupled with the decisive fact that the revolutionaries have no political prestige and that their power depends on machine-guns. It is estimated that eighteen persons were killed in the streets of Berlin yesterday.

London, March 17.—The Frankfuerter Zeitung publishes a telegram from Berlin in which it is stated that Dr. Kapp and General von Luttwitz have offered unconditionally to resign as the result of the Independent Socialists' ultimatum threatening to establish a Soviet Republic.

Berlin, March 17.—A Soviet Republic has been proclaimed at Eisleben in Saxony. Fighting has occurred at Elberfeld between armed Communists and troops. The Communists were defeated and a thousand of them are reported to have been driven on to occupied territory where they were disarmed by the British.

Copenhagen, March 17.—According to a telegram from Berlin Dr. Kapp has issued an official statement in which he attributes his resignation to the fact that Herr Bauer's Government has decided to carry out the most essential of the political demands as requested before the coup d'etat. Dr. Kapp therefore resigned the executive power into the hands of the military Commander-in-Chief.

The Hague, March 17.—The Prime Minister states that the ex-Kaiser has given assurances to the Government that he will abstain from any political action and consequently will not compromise Holland politically. A Royal decree, issued simultaneously with the Premier's announcement, lays down that the ex-Kaiser's residence shall be in the Province of Utrecht, the Government to fix the exact locality later.

London, March 19.—The Duchess of Marlborough has instituted a suit for the restitution of conjugal rights which is the usual preliminary to a divorce. The Duke and Duchess have been separated for several years.

SAVINGS SOCIETY HAS ANNUAL FETE

First Anniversary Of Organisation Is Attended By 1,000

Nearly 1,000 attended the anniversary of the Thrift and Savings Society at the former German Club Sunday afternoon. Mr David Z. T. Yui, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Hsu Chien former Vice-Minister of Justice representing Dr. Sun Yat-sen and Mr. Wang Yin-tsai, representing General Chen Lu-san, commander of the Fourth Division, were the principal speakers. Mr. Yang Sien-fung, president of the society, occupied the chair.

Congratulatory messages from Mr. C. P. Yin, Managing-Director of the Shanghai Nanking and Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo lines and various local organisations were read. Mr. Feng Tsao-kwan spoke on behalf of the members. Prof. Lee Sung-chuan of Nanyang College, entertained the assembly with his sleight of hand performance and Miss Ma Sih-cheng gave a piano solo.

The organisation, which mainly consists of the members of staff of the two railways, claims a membership of over 700, whose savings amount to $200,000. The society expects to have its own offices in the near future and to undertake some industrial enterprise with the savings.

OIL INSPECTOR IS ACCUSED OF ASKING BRIBES

Threats Bring Sub-Official Of A.P.C. On $1,000 Charge In Mixed Court

Charges that an inspector for the Asiatic Petroleum Company, Ltd., obtained $1,000 from agents of the company by means of threats were made in a case that was brought yesterday in the Mixed Court. The case was remanded, by British Assessor Grant Jones and Magistrate Kwan, for a week to allow further investigation.

Shao Siau-eu, the inspector, is charged with having extorted $300 from Zau Yoong-sung, agent for the company at Tungchow, and $700 frm Wong Li-chuen, agent at Tsoong Ming, Pei Sing and Haimen Ting.

The agents said the inspector came to their places of business and represented that he was a warm personal friend of Mr. Li, a submanager for the district who was to be made manager within the next year. He threatened them, they said, that unless they advanced him the money he demanded they would lose their agencies. As they had been agents for the company for many years and had a lucrative business they acceded to the demands. When the accounts of the agencies were audited at the Chinese New Year the alleged fraud was brought to light.

Mr. R. S. Haskell appeared for the defense and Mr. G. H. Wright prosecuted the case.

Bail of $1,000 shop security was granted in the case.

Mr. H. G. Curran, manager for the company at Soochow, was a witness in the case yesterday and testified that the inspector had no right to collect money from any agents, nor to ask for an advance from them.

British Government Charged By Asquith With Extravagance

Ex-Premier Demands Departmental Retrenchment And Free Trade With Russia

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 16.—In the course of the debate on high prices in the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Asquith said that revenue should be used for a reduction of debt rather than for sheltering the consumer from prevailing prices.

He advocated calling an International economic conference, including ex-enemies, as a means towards increasing production and thereby reducing prices.

He charged the Government with wasteful administration and lemanded departmental retrenchments and the freest trade with Russia.

Mr. J. R. Clynes (Labor) declared that the Government had utterly failed to deal with profiteering by the combines "which controlled 80 percent of our commodities." The debate was adjourned.

Daniels Urges U.S. To Interfere For International Peace

(Reuter's Service)

Annapolis, March 15.—Mr. Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, addressing midshipmen of the Naval Academy here urged that "in order to save her soul" America must "undertake some great task for humanity," for example help to secure peace in the Balkans, accept the mandate for Turkey or aid in the development of Mexico, Central America and South America.

SIXTH ITALIAN CONSOLIDATED 5% LOAN 1920

We are in receipt of cable advices from Rome to the effect that period of subscription to these Bonds has been extended one month, or until April 10th.

This will give an opportunity to those who have not yet invested in these Bonds to invest and to those who have invested to invest more.

The rate of exchange is very favorable at the present and the issue price of Lire 87.50 being still in effect these Bonds should offer a very attractive investment.

Bonds are in denominations of Lire 100 or multiples thereof and yield 5% interest on the par value which is 5.71% on the issue price.

Good Dark	88/82
Barky	83/72
SCRAP
Virgin and Pressed	Nil
Loose	Nil

Catalogued for Sale: 2,617,114 lbs. (about 1,168 tons).
Sold: 1,240,602 lbs. (about 554 tons).

The market opened to a very poor bidding at the auction this week, there being little or no demand from the regular trade, but prices were kept up to about last week's level by speculators who had apparently sold short during the last few days and used the auction sales for covering.

Singapore Standard Ribbed Smoked Sheet opened weakly at 108 cents, but this grade attracting the greatest attention with only comparatively few lots on offer, soon rose to 110 cents, and this figure was paid freely before the close of the day. Off-Quality Sheet was not wanted even at reduced prices.

Singapore Standard First Latex Crepe found practically no buyers and realised only from 105-107 cents.

The demand for Fine Brown and Lower Grades of Crepe was again rather poor, these grades realising round about last week's prices.

At the continuation this morning, a better tone prevailed and a stronger demand was experienced for Sheet in spite of weaker advices from London. Standard lots of this grade were readily taken up at 110½ cents, whereas Standard Crepe sold at yesterday's prices. No change is shown on the week for Standard Sheet, where Standard Crep has decreased 1½ cents. At the time of writing, the market is steady, cable indicating a slightly firmer market having come through from London.

Hongkong Market

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor write as follows in their report dated March 12:

Our market shows renewed signs of life due to the heavy fall in exchange.

The Banks at home have been calling in loans in anticipation of a higher Bank of England rate, and sterling shares have suffered n consequence.

Oil shares in particular have reflected the weakness, but at the close, according to the last cabled advices, the market has recovered somewhat.

Business with Shanghai has been at a standstill, and although reports come through that money is easier in Shanghai a curious circumstance is that the forward rates there do not seem to bear out this contention.

Below we give the leading alterations since last week:

Hongkong Banks.—Have been the medium of a fair business between $530 and $535, closing with no sellers under $600. The markets being strong owing to weaker exchange.

Docks.—Have come to business at $153 for cash, but forward rates show a sharp advance. At the close there are more buyers than sellers for forward delivery.

Cements.—Continue their advance and $7.70 is offered for cash with $8.00 done for April.

Shells.—Declined as far as £10.10.0., but the latest advices show a reaction to £11.8.9.

Canton Insurances.—Have been the medium of a fair business at $385 and Indos are wanted at $215.

The Struggle In Germany

A MESSAGE from Berlin brought by the American wireless reports that an uprising of a Bolshevist character has broken out in Warsaw and other parts of Poland. The date is March 19. This news is particularly significant when considered in connection with the despatches of the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph of London. Under date of March 15 he says that the German reactionary aim is to reorganise Russia militarily and economically while temporising with the Supreme Council, with a view to crushing Poland by joint Russo-German action.

The correspondent is reported by Reuter's as uttering a warning to the Allies that the immediate danger lies in Poland, in Austria and further east. This correspondent, it should be remembered is credited by Reuter's as being the one whose remarkable despatches on the eve of the revolution in Germany have since proved correct.

He says that among the conspirators who were recently in Berlin in conference with the German army chiefs were Enver and Talaat Pashas, Count Andrassy, the most Germanophile Magyar, the ex-Tsar Ferdinand of Bulgaria, the ex-King Constantine of Greece and the Russian Tsarist and Octobrist leaders. He also declared that the German army will decline to be disarmed and that if the new regime should succeed in holding power it would request a new peace treaty on the lines advocated by the Rome and London revisionists. He named Dr. von Kuehlmann as the real secret diplomatic leader, supported by Dr. Bernstorff and a big group of banking and colonial magnates.

The message, so far as we are able to judge, is contradictory. The militarist government which has been set up in Berlin claims that its principal object is to erect a barrier in Europe against Bolshevism, and if it is being backed by the classes indicated, the bankers and colonial magnates, von Kuehlmann, Bernstroff, et al, that would more likely than not, be the fact. But the correspondent also says that the object is to unite with Russia in crushing Poland. The only government in Russia that the German military party can unite with at present is the Soviet government and inasmuch as the march on Berlin was announced as a movement against the growing spread of Bolshevism in Germany we fail to see how the two statements can be made to dovetail.

There is, of course, the chance that the message has been mutilated by censors or in transmission. The German militarists, familiar with all Russian currents, may have a deal on with various factions to help them in crushing both Poland and the Bolshevists. In this case, the Allied Governments would be confronted with a delicate and interesting situation. For the working classes of Germany are evidently engaged with the militarists of Germany in a life-and-death struggle.

It does no good to describe this struggle as camouflage. A thousand killed at Kiel; hundreds killed at Essen and fighting reported in all industrial centers. The German people certainly are not engaged in exterminating themselves for mere purposes of camouflage. They are split up into violent factions fighting for supremacy in Germany. Each faction has its own policy, each policy has for its basis the saving of Germany. The working people want no more war and to prevent more war they wish to retain power and govern themselves. They are standing by the Ebert-Bauer government. The militarists denounce them as quitters, call them internationalists and Bolshevists, and declare that Germany's only salvation lies in war and more war—war until the world, already three-fourths ruined, is wholly ruined.

Along these lines the cleavage has come. The militarists have been plotting and the workers have been striving to hold power against these plots. Every despatch reports the fighting as being between the workers and the soldiers. The militarists claim that they are trying to upset and drive back Bolshevism. How are the Allies going to take this?—the Allies who have recently been fighting Bolshevism in Russia and Siberia? Are they going into Germany on the side of the militarists "to restore order and set up a barrier against the advance of Bolshevism?" Or are they going in on the side of the workers to crush militarism forever?

The Allies are preparing to move. How are they going to move? What faction are they going to suppress in Germany? What faction are they going to place in power? Are they going in at all? They have just come through a bitter and enlightening experience in Russia. Is their Russian experience going to prove of any value to them in this crisis? The Government they have been doing business with in a fairly satisfactory way—that is, as satisfactory as could be expected in view of the opposition it was subjected to at the hands of the German militarist plotters—has been upset and driven out of Berlin. Are the Allies going to see that it is restored to power?

It seems to us that the opportunity is afforded them to crush militarism in Germany for a long time to come, if not forever. If they go in at all it should be with this object. There is no reason why they should stand by and see the working people of Germany massacred by the militarists of Germany.

There is something to be said for self-determination, of course. But in the present state of world affairs a victory anywhere for militarism, but especially a victory for it in Germany, would have its reverberations and reactions all over the world.

Morning Exercises For The Tired Busiess Man

Rise Seven a.m.—Stand in the middle of the room, raise arms slowly overhead, take deep breath and say, "Damn the politicians" lowering arms in attitude of despair: ten times.

Extend body flat downward on the floor, cover eyes with hands, think of the railroads and weep; till dry.

Kneel, wring hands, meditate upon the labor unions, and groan 150 times.

Assume sitting position, hands on hips, sway gently to and fro and concentrate on Mr. Burleson until a generous frothing at the mouth sets in; till exhausted.

Collapse on floor. Grovel vigorously, think of the income tax and gnash your teeth as in anger. Ad. lib

While cooling off try to get a number on a telephone.

Note:—Observe this simple regime every morning before breakfast and you will reach the office with most of the cares and trcubles of the day already out of your system.

Wilson And The Third Term

Republicans Welcome Idea Of Candidacy, Democrats Deprecate And Disown It

A number of Republican papers feel that the Jackson Day letter makes the President, in the language of The New York Tribune, "the only logical Democratic candidate." Whether he actually intends to run again is considered a matter of more doubt. The Philadelphia Public Ledger considers the idea "nonsense," yet it discusses the whole speech and this aspect of it at length as follows:

"Is his new slogan to be 'He kept out of peace'? Not that we imagine for a moment that he will have any further use for campaign slogans. If it were almost any one else—certainly if it were any politican of lower ideals—who thus proposed to prolong artificially the life of an issue on which he himself must stand as the only logical Democratic candidate for the Presidency, we might suspect that that very human motive had something to do with his amazing attitude. For it is as clear as crystal that if the Democratic party is to go into the coming contest with this Bourbon attitude on the treaty, an attitude far stiffer than either the French or the British press is taking, then the President, who signed the treaty and has fought unwaveringly for its acceptance, holus bolus, without even such reservations as Paris and London seem willing to accept, is plainly indicated as the Democratic standard bearer.

'THIS IS NONSENSE'

"But, of course, this is nonsense. Woodrow Wilson cannot be a serious candidate for a third term. That issue alone would condemn him to certain defeat. The dread of a Dictator on which our tradition rests would never dissolve spontaneously before the record of the most self-centered, self-sufficient and self-starting autocrat we have ever had in the White House.

"That is where we believe the President to be fatally wrong. He himself swallowed in Paris far greater and more indigestible deviations from the principles he went to Paris to fight for than those that are now suggested by Senator Lodge and his supporters. He did so with the utmost reluctance and only because he must. That is granted and forgiven. He is not omnipotent. What power he had was seriously weakened by hostile fire from behind. But having swallowed a procession of 'camels' at the bidding of Lloyd George and Clemenceau, why should he now gag so terribly over a swarm of 'gnats'?"

On the Democratic side The Cleveland Plain-Dealer openly condemns the President for his silence:

"So far as the third term matter is concerned, The Plain-Dealer has long felt that President Wilson owes it to himself and the country to make his position plain beyond shadow of doubt. Such a declaration was expected at the Jackson Day banquet. It is disappointing that no such statement was forthcoming.

"If the President thinks it necessary or wise to seek a third term, the announcement should not be delayed. If he accepts the doctrine first enunciated by Washington and never violated—that two terms in the Presidency are all that any one should be given—he should say so, for the time is short. In either case complete frankness on his part would go far toward clarifying a situation rapidly coming to the point of possible explosion. No apparent good purpose can be promoted by the President's silence."

Despite these widespread suspicions that President Wilson has a third term in mind. The New York Times feels that the idea is absurd and devotes considerable space to proving the point. Its argument runs thus:

EASILY WORRIED

"If there are any Democratic candidates for the Presidential nomination who feel that they are hampered by President Wilson's neglect to declare that he will not be a candidate, they must be few and easily worried. It ought to be plain to everybody, without any declaration by the President on the subject, that he does not desire and would not accept a third nomination.

"A third term, after such illustrious service, could be nothing less than an anti-climax. From the point of view of his own personal fame, therefore, if we credit the President with being anything above the considerations which move mortal men, he could not afford it.

"The President's health alone would forbid him to brave the great fatigues and the tremendous exertions that cannot be evaded in these days by any Presidential candidate. He may be, as all Americans hope he will be, recovered from his illness before the convention meets, but the steps of that recovery will be slow, and when they are over he could not prudently enter on such a furious battle as the campaign of 1920 will be. The discharge of his Presidential duties alone will tax to the full his strength.

"Finally, though a third term is not prohibited by law or by the Constitution, it is prohibited to Democrats by numberless party pledges. Over and again the national platforms of their party have solemnly declared against such an innovation. It is the historic policy and principle of the Democratic party that no President, however eminent, should have more than two terms in the White House. President Wilson knows this as well as anybody, and there is not the slightest reason for supposing that, even if there were no other consideration in the case, he would disregard these pronouncements, reverse the historic policy, and abandon the historic principle of the party to which he belongs."

Conditions In Czecho-Slovakia

By Donald L. Breed
(The New York Times)

I have read with great surprise the article in The New York Times entitled "Reign of the Idler." Last year I spent five months in Czecho-Slovakia, traveled into every part of the country, met men of every party and class and had good opportunities to see just what was going on and draw my own conclusions. Because I believe the misinformation contained in this article to be distinctly prejudicial to the interests of Czecho-Slovak industry, now struggling to its feet after a long and painful season of war and Austrian mismanagement, I hope you will give this letter a place in your columns.

To talk about "Bolshevistic Czecho-Slovakia" and say that "Czecho-Slovakia is going through a nightmare of red terror" are to misrepresent the situation in the most absurd way. The Czecho-Slovaks are vigorously anti-Bloshevist. The overwhelming majority of the nation presents a stubborn front of defiance to this unwelcome doctrine. True, the people mostly lean toward socialism of a certain sort. But any one who is at all familiar with political theory knows that socialism is a term which means all things to all men. It is applied to systems which are as dissimilar as day and night. Socialism, as the Czecho-Slovaks understand it, means evolution and not revolution. There are radicals in Prague, just as there are extremists in Washington, but the Communists are not in the ascendency in the Government. There is no "Socialist dictatorship" in Prague. The Socialist Ministers have no sympathy nor patience with the Moscow autocracy, which, in turn, condemns and vilifies Czecho-Slovak socialism as bourgeois and reactionary.

One day last year I went out to the mining and steel town of Kladno, to talk to Muna, Lenin's chief propagandist for Bohemia. (To decry his presence in Czecho-Slovakia is to turn our guns against ourselves, for have we not a Russian Soviet Bureau in flourishing operation in New York, and did we not permit it to operate and have its name in the telephone book at the very time when our expeditionary forces were supposed to be saving civilisation by fighting the Bolsheviki in Siberia?) Muna is a discouraged, dried-up little man, without personality, energy or poise. His following is negligible. They have made fun in the concert halls and cabarets of Prague ever since he arrived from Russia. Dogmatic Bolshevism is out of the question in Czecho-Slovakia. Even the extreme left wing Socialists will have nothing to do with it. Muna admitted to me that this was true.

Nor does practical Bolshevism exist, masquerading under another name. It is a fact, at the close of the war, the soldiers who had been in the old Austrian Army were sadly demoralised. So were great masses of the civil population. Starvation, lack of clothing and heat, unemployment, industrial collapse and forced military service all contributed to this end. There have been thievery and murder in the cities and in the rural districts. But, compared with Poland or Hungary, Czecho-Slovakia has a model record for law and order.

Masaryk has not been alone in urging the people to work. Every one is begging the masses and the classes to "settle down" and produce. Every public gathering I attended gave me a chance to hear admonitions of this sort. The first thing the National Assembly did over a year ago was to pass an eight-hour law. But the very men who sponsored that piece of legislation have been seeking to have exceptions made in this post-war period, so that men may work overtime and aid the restoration of business. When men are not working more than five hours a day there are various causes. They cannot get raw stuffs; they are sometimes without coal; they find difficulty in reaching their markets because telegraph wires are down, mails are uncertain and railway communication interrupted. The steel mills, textile factories and porcelain concerns often cannot run for more than part of a day. Everywhere in the industrial towns I found this to be true.

The unemployment wage was one of the things which encouraged the unrest of the physically weak and morally enfeebled workers. This was started by the Austrian regime and was continued by the Czecho-Slovak Government, because it would have meant grave disorder to stop it suddenly. But it was reduced by stages until now it is almost completely done away with. The working classes are somewhat flighty and irresponsible, but they are neither anarchists nor degenerates, and they are gravitating back to normal as fast as could be expected.

If you could see some of the sights I saw in Prague last Winter you would agree that the proletariat deserves great credit for its self-control. I saw small children going about in freezing weather with only one garment, their bodies covered with sores because of malnutrition. I saw old women walking through the snow with their feet wrapped in rags because they could get no shoes. I saw shivering bread lines and men, women and children staggering into the public soup kitchens so weak from lack of food that they could hardly walk. Under these conditions it is no wonder that there has been discontent and irregularity. The wonder is that Bolshevism did not come.

During the events of May, 1919, which your article describes as "revolution," I was in Prague. There were, indeed, shoe riots, but they quieted down in two days; no blood was spilt, and little property was destroyed. The actual reorganisation of the Cabinet came some time later. Personally I do not think the new Premier, Tusar, has distinguished himself much, but he is a man of force and integrity. In comparison with some of the other Socialists of Europe and America, for example the British Labor, he stands for very conservative procedure. It is not surprising that Cabinet resignations and changes should come in a new government. There may be more of them in Czecho-Slovakia, but there will be no Bolshevism.

The nationalisation of land was a reform greaty needed in Bohemia. It is being carried out gradually and with moderation. That some large proprietors of land should suffer is inevitable, but the major part of the population will profit.

Many farmers did indulge in private food speculation and profiteering, to the immense prejudice of city dwellers. It is a pity that this was so, and self-respecting Czecho-Slovaks regretted it. I fail to see how the food transactions carried on by the man referred to in the magazine section article can possibly be regarded as "devoted to the interests of the Czechs." He merely supplied food at a high price to the workmen in a factory which was turning out war supplies for the Austrian Government. Nor, apparently, was this all that he did. If he is facing a prison term, I venture to think that there was extremely good reason for it.

A Glimpse At The Personal Economy Of Any Man

Mark Twain more than once bemoaned the fact that he was a man. Humanity, in his opinion, had few reasons to be proud of itself. In The Scientific Monthly (Lancaster, Pa., January), Prof. B. W. Kunkel, of Lafayette College, points out the disadvantages of being human, from a bodily standpoint. Man's eyes are imperfect; his organism includes rudimentary structures that are always getting out of order; his very upright posture was recently acquired and is the cause of numberless defects and weaknesses. He has shed his original hairy coat, so that his skin now imperfectly protects the body. His organ of smell, compared with that of some other animals, is the seat of a sense only by courtesy. His jaws have lost their gripping power, and his teeth have degenerated. His alimentary canal, including his appendix, has become more liable to disease. But despite all this Professor Kunkel warns us that he does not consider man fundamentally "a poorly built machine." To summarise his article:

From certain points of view the human mechanism is marvelously adapted and warrants man's high regard for himself. But in no case is adaption to environment absolutely perfect. Disharmonies abound in practically all forms of living things. Besides imperfect structures, a great many animals exhibit instincts or reactions to stimuli which seem to go counter to the best interests of the individual and the race. Perverted tastes in man are no less destructive than some perverted reactions in animals. For instance, the moth flying into the candle-flame represents a maladjustment of the moth's mechanism and its environment which results in the destruction of untold myriads of moths.

Many of the defects of the human body may be referred back from the mechanical point of view to the present habit of striding about on two legs, a habit of very recent phylogenetic development—a fact vouchsafed by the length of time the infant crawls on 'all fours' and the slowness with which it assumes the bipedal method of locomotion and exhibits a fairly well-adapted structure for the upright position. So late in phylogeny has this position been acquired that many parts of the body have not yet become perfectly fitted for this remarkable experiment. The upright posture has affected directly the skeleton, the muscles, the blood-vessels, the jaws and teeth, and probably indirectly other parts of the alimentary canal and the organs of respiration; while many students of human evolution regard the abnormal development of the intellect of man as a direct outcome of the upright position with the freeing of the hands to learn of the envoirment by handling and the elevation of the principal sense organs in order to give man a broader horizon.

The upright position has brought about several disadvantageous maladjustments in the blood-vessels. Unlike the quadrupeds, in which the axis of the body is carried habitually more nearly parallel with the ground, in man the axis is vertical so that the blood-vessels, especially of the lower part of the leg, must support an unusually tall column of blood and thus be subjected to a relatively great pressuro. There are several superficial veins which lie beneath the skin only and so are deprived of the added support of the surrounding muscles. The walls of these vessels frequently give way, particularly in those who stand for long periods and whose blood-vessels may be slightly weak. When these vessels rupture under the pressure of the blood, varicose veins result, which have discommoded thousands upon thousands of human beings.

The veins of man exhibit further lack of adaption to the upright position by the arrangement of the valves. These valves, which are pockets to prevent the blood from flowing away from the heart, are obviously important only in those veins which have a vertical course and in which the blood flows upward to reach the heart. Were the valves thoroughly adapted to the upright position they would be quite differently distributed. There would be none in the veins between the ribs, which have a nearly horizontal position in man, and there would be an abundance of them in the large vessels entering the heart from the abdominal region. The great vein which receives blood from the legs and kidneys and the great vein which brings blood from the stomach and intestines are both without valves, so that the circulation in the lower extremities and the abdominal organs is retarded and the pressure on the veins of the legs is sometimes seriously increased.

The absence of valves in the great abdominal veins works hardship in another way. In case the extensive vessels of the alimentary canal suddenly enlarge as they do under the

It Might Be Worse :-: By S. E. Kiser

The wintry days are fitting,
And I'm glad to let them flit;
I've a longing to be sitting
Where the fans are pleased to sit.
Be of good cheer, everybody,
Spring is on the way once more;
Soon the roads will be as muddy
As of yore.

The wintry days are going,
And I'm glad to see them go;
Soon Spring breezes will be blowing—
They'll be welcome when they blow,
Candidates are busy drumming
Up their clansmen here and there.
Each with high hopes of becoming Woodrow's heir.

The wintry days are passing,
And I'm glad to see them pass;
Delegates will soon be massing
To withstand the waves of gas.
Politicians will assure us
That they have the only pills
We shall ever get to cure us
Of our ills.

The wintry days are waning,
And I'm glad to watch them wane;
Soon glad lovers will be gaining
Sweet rewards in Lovers' Lane.
Even though the time for filing
Income tax returns is here,
Let us try to keep on smiling—
Spring is near.

Hoops! My Dear, They're Coming Back

The purists are going to have their inning and the jazz skirt is doomed. Those who have refrained from drinking wood alcohol for fear of going blind during the brief skirt epidemic need have no such compunctions in the future. A prominent French fashion journal says the hoopskirt will be all the rage within one year.

The first hoopskirt was designed by Omar the Tentmaker, and the idea was later used by P. T. Barnum to house his congress of freaks and animals. So far as history goes, Omar's design was first used as a skirt by the late lamented Queen Elizabeth.

When Queen Liz floated out of Windsor Castle to take the air she resembled a full-rigged ship sailing before the wind, with everything, including the fore-tops'l, spinnaker and jibs working. She occupied so much territory that she had to speak in a loud tone of voice to be heard by her large circle of friends and admirers. They used to hold the six-day bicycle races around the edge of her skirt.

In those days the lady herself merely acted in the capacity of center-pole for the tent she wore, and when she was overtaken by a high wind it was customary for her flunkies to stake her gown to the ground around the edges.

There was a lull in the hoopskirt epidemic for some time, and hoopskirts broke out in this country along about the Civil War period. They didn't exactly cause the war, but they so camouflaged their fair owners that they kept the soldiers wondering what they were fighting for.

The country was sparsely settled, and if a woman wanted to wear a hoopskirt she could move out West and have a whole county for that purpose. Hoopskirts caused the invention of double doors, which have caused more grip, pneumonia and flu than all other modern or ancient improvements.

For the past ten years it has been possible for any lady almost to step through a crack in a wall or between the pickets of a fence. The change came through the crowded conditions in the great cities. Seven women had to staad where one stood before.

The advent of the hoopskirt, which comes with the other great reforms, will necessitate considerable rebuilding. No lady of the Civil War period could get down a modern fire-escape, and as for squeezing through a street-car door—absurd, my dear. Nine men will have to get up to give one lady a seat, and it isn't believed there are nine men in any whole city who will do it.

With women in politics, it will be impossible to get more than three or four honorary vice-presidents on any platform outside the Hippodrome, and as for a political convention of women, it will be necessary to hold it on some continent yet to be discovered and annexed by the United States.

It will be necessary to evolve some substitute for the wireless telegraph. A hoopskirt is a natural antennae, with its multitude of wires, and each one will be absorbing radio messages meant for some other locality.

But all these changes must be made to accommodate the new style. Those who have nothing to conceal will be loudest in their demands for the hoopskirt.

Bobbie And His Pa

Our teecher asked us to rite a essay about the Flite of Time & I asked Pa to help me beekaus I doan't anything about Flites excep Flites of stairs.

Well, sed Pa, it is a hard subjeck for a kid, the Flite of Time. Kids nevver reelise it, sed Pa, until they are growed up & have kids of thare own. It is then, sed Pa, that they reelise how swift them yeers flies into the Ded Past, Pa sed.

How long has the Past been Ded? I sed to Pa.

Sum of it has been ded longer than last week, sed Pa. It is a vary old burd, the Past. It was a old burd when Mark Antony was dancing the Turkey Trot with Cleopatry, sed Pa. Long beefoar I caim to this Plannit, sed Pa, other grate men was born & died.

How sad, sed Ma. Wait till I git my hankerchif, sed Ma, so I can weep un-avaling teers.

This is no joaking matter, sed Pa. It fills one with Awe, sed Pa, to refleck that almost beefoar we know it we shall be with that silen Majority of princes & pesants, lords & ladies, book agents & dentists sed Pa, down in the dreemless dust.

& docktors, too? I sed.

Yes, Bobbie, sed Pa, seven docktors. With all thare skill thay know no pill to saiv them from the Reeper's will, sed Pa.

Why can't we always be the way we are now, I sed.

Beekaus this little life is but a small part of what is in stoar for us beeyond, sed Pa. It is vary foolish for peepul to think this life is the only life, sed Pa. If this is the only life, why this? Thare might as well have been nothing, sed Pa. & that is sum argyment for immortality if anybody sud ask me, sed Pa.

Why, sed Ma, I believe you have hit on a wunderful truth. If this is all, why this at all? I never thot of that, sed Ma.

All you have to do to git to thinking, sed Pa, is to stick around were I am. I stim-u-lait thought sed Pa, like a cowboy starting a ruff house, sed Pa.

I appreciate the many bennefits of being around ware you are, sed Ma. Every day of my life I pause & think how lucky I am to be living in the same age with you.

Do you mean that? sed Pa.

Indeed I do, sed Ma, I reelise it moar & moar the older I git.

You are a grate woman, sed Pa. A woman will hardly ever admit anything, & in one line you have admitted two things, sed Pa, you have admitted that I am a grate gink & that you are gitting older. Thare is hope for you, sed Pa to Ma. Now you can go to bed, Bobbie, sed Pa, the flight of time has brought you to yure bed time.

A Glimpse At The Personal Economy Of Any Man

stimulus of a blow on the solar plexus, the blood is drained rapidly from the brain and the recipient of the body blow falls in a faint.

Not the least of the disadvantages of the upright position is the exposure of the entire abdominal wall to injury. It is hardly necessary to call attention to the solar plexus which is but poorly protected behind only a moderate rampart of viscera and which must in the history of the human race have caused the downfall of many a fighter before the modern pugilist came to realise the importance of this weak point of human anatomy.

Turning aside from defects which are the immediate outcome of the upright position, Professor Kunkel next turns to some not so closely connected with standing upright. He writes:

The skin of man has lost certain structures which render it a less perfect hull for the internal organs than is the skin of many of the lower mammals. The coat of hair, so scanty over most of the surface, no longer affords a protection. Together with the loss of hair has also gone an extensive loss of dermal musculature by means of which the skin can be twitched, as is well seen in the horse when troubled with flies. This extensive layer of muscle has disappeared from the human species except on the front of the neck and the face and the scalp.

The defects of the eyes as optical instruments are as nothing in comparison with those of the neighboring organ of smell. The delicate odors that are appreciated by many of the lower animals are totally beyond our powers. To the dog with its sense of smell a whole world of sense impressions of which we know absolutely nothing is open.

The respiratory organs have suffered directly as a result of the upright position of man, for the emancipation of the forelimb from supporting the weight of the front part of the body has brought about a great change in the movements of respiration which have not been accompanied by perfectly adapted changes in the lungs. The anthropoid apes in captivity and man are very prone to tuberculosis of the lungs, which gains a foothold generally in the more poorly ventilated parts of the lungs. In some diseased conditions in which shortness of breath is experienced, the patient finds it necessary to rest his hands on the back of a chair or other support in order to get his breath.

Breakfast—

Have you ever tried

POST-TOASTIES

(Your grocer stocks them)

They are really the most delicious breakfast food that one could imagine. Just crisp little flakes of corn, all crumbly and nice for either grown-ups or children. Served with either cream or milk, they form a dish that is at once

APPETISING and NOURISHING

It is wonderful the nourishment these little flakes contain—but when you consider that they are made from the finest corn grown in the wheat country of America and Canada, that they are made by a process which retains all the natural elements of the corn in their most assimilable form, and that last, but not least, they are made under such perfect sanitary conditions, then the verdict must be

"A PERFECT CEREAL FOOD"

Judge Southworth Dies In America

Former Philippine Official Succumbs To Cancer After Operations

Judge Louis M. Southworth, who left Manila for the United States last year on account of ill health, is dead. The Governor General of the Philippines received a cablegram from the Bureau of Insular Affairs, advising of his demise on February 1.

Judge Southworth was first operated on by Dr. Stafford at the Philippine General hospital, for a cancer in the neck.

His health seemed to have improved after this, but later, he had to enter the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, Maryland, where he was given radium treatment. Despite this, he did not recover.

Judge Southworth was known throughout the Far East. He was formerly prosecuting attorney in Manila and then judge. He resigned from the government and practised law for several years. He went to the Philippine Islands in the early days of the American Administration.

In 1918, he was appointed by Governor General Harrison as judge for Iloilo, a position he held for about a year, compelled to give it up and later sailing for the homeland on leave of absence, for treatment.

He was a staunch Democrat in the Philippines, being the initiator of the famous Wilson-Harrison Democratic club. And is survived by a widow. He left considerable property in the Philippines.

Gen. Aguinaldo Plans Health Trip To U.S.

Man Who Headed Revolt In Philippines Would Go To Mayo Brothers

Efforts are being made to obtain accommodations for General Emilio Aguinaldo on an early steamer leaving Manila or Hongkong for the United States, in order that the general may accompany Dr. H. E. Stafford to America for consultation with the Mayo Brothers, where an operation upon the wound from the operation performed for appendicitis may be performed.

Efforts have also been made to secure passage from Shanghai for the man who led the Philippine insurrection.

The operation for appendicitis was performed at the general hospital, Manila in October and the wound has not healed. General Aguinaldo entered the hospital October 10. He has been constantly confined there since. The operation for appendicitis was successful, save for the fact that the wound still suppurates and requires constant hospital care of the patient.

Dr. Stafford believes that the trip to America and a tour of the country following treatment at the Mayo hospital will be effective in restoring the health and vigor of General Aguinaldo.
